WHERE AM I NOW?

I work as a television reporter and presenter for BBC News, with a specialism in the arts. This currently involves producing a range of news reports on life in the East Midlands, filming on location and presenting our 6.30pm programme on BBC One.

A LEVEL QUALIFICATIONS AT BILBOROUGH

English Literature, History and Theatre Studies

WHERE I WENT AFTER BILBOROUGH

I then studied English Literature & Theatre Studies at the University of Leeds, followed by a postgraduate diploma in Broadcast Journalism.

MY MEMORIES OF BILBOROUGH

On many levels – it continued to cultivate and inform my love of literature and the arts. I also made some valuable friendships and it was vital bridge into University.

MY ADVICE TO YOU...

I would say choose subjects that you love and bring out the best in you – because when it comes to a career they will give you the most satisfaction.
