Governor Profile

Shanine Fasasi – Independent Governor

Apart from having a passion for good high quality education, Shanine also has a strong interest in the importance and benefits of promoting cultural diversity within education and the community! Whilst undertaking her teacher training degree at University, Shanine realised that there was a need for far more injection as well as training around cultural diversity particularly in the classroom. After successfully completion of her teaching degree, Shanine went on to pursue a Masters Degree in Education, with a specific interest in Cultural Diversity. She is now aiming to pursue her PhD studies in the not distant future.

Since leaving University education, Shanine has to unexpectedly homeschool one of her children for medical reasons and as a result of this change in family circumstances, she decided to started her own Education Consultancy Business, promoting and raising the importance and benefits of Cultural Diversity in Education and the Community. This pathway has allowed Shanine to still participate in all things education professionally and on a personal level through homeschooling her son.

Shanine is married and mother to five children, she has two daughters currently enrolled at Bilborough College, with one due to move onto University in the autumn academic year.

For leisure, Shanine enjoys all things cooking, she also enjoys collecting recipes books from around the world and learning to sew. Shanine also enjoys volunteering for community projects such as the food bank and hot meals imitative.
