

Holiday Homework

So we can get a feel for your own personal designing style, and to help us quickly get to know you we have a task for you. Over the summer you need to find a product which needs a redesign – choose carefully. Maybe it has become dated, or perhaps the function was poorly designed originally. You need to address this problem on a single side of A3, showing its current state, a selection of development ideas, and a final design proposal.

Try to really let us see you at your best, use a range of drawing techniques, and maximise your creativity. If you do any modelling photograph this and include these photos within the work. You are limited to a single sheet, so make every millimetre count!

This will be collected in and discussed in your first lesson back after the holidays.

This A level course is offered to Bilborough Sixth Form College students but is delivered at Fernwood School – just a few minutes ride away in the college mini-bus!
